Carries 16 Wounds

Ernest Thinks That's Enough for One Man

A letter from Ernest Buckingham to his mother.

Darford War Hospital, Kent, July 1st, 1916.

My dear Mother—I must try and write you a few lines with my left hand. I have been propped by pillows the last few days and am not able to get up on Sunday. My wounds are getting along fine. The Major is surprised at the rapid way my wounds are healing. The Sisters and everybody are so good to me and I am delighted with the place. It is so good to get away from the trenches. Bob says he has a job for me in the Pay Office when I am better again.

I must tell you how I got wounded. The Germans had been shelling our trenches pretty heavily for several hours. I thought I would have a wash so I went into our dug-out to get my towel and soap. I was just opening my haversack when bang! It was only a small shell "whizz bang" they call them. It hit the roof right at my head and exploded. I do not know why I am alive to-day, neither by what rules of war I should have been killed.

There was another fellow sitting back in the corner of the dugout. I was blown to the opposite corner, but neither of us were buried. His name is George Clark and he comes from Calgary. He has been my chum since coming to France, and he kept all my valuables to send home. Well I must get on with the story. After the smoke cleared away, I lolloped across to Clark. "George I'm hit," he says. "So am I, can you get out." I just then realized that I should get out of there before another shell came. I scrambled out of the door with Clark after me. I ran about 10 yards to the machine gun emplacement. As luck would have it, a stretcher bearer was there and he dressed my wounds right away. I was put on a stretcher and at dusk commenced a rotten journey down the communication trenches. By the way, Clark was not even scratched and stopped with me while I was in the front line.

When I got to the dressing station my wounds were dressed again. They took 7 pieces of shell out of my arm and leg. Some of them were as large as the bottom of my overcoat, and they were put in my tunic pocket which was unfortunately lost. The only pieces of shell I have left were taken from my arm and abdomen in the two operations. After leaving the dressing station I was carried for about a mile across open country to the ambulance, and before long I was out of the sound of guns and safely in a Canadian hospital.

I suppose you will want to know something of my wounds. I have 12 wounds in my right arm and at one time I had 10 rubber tubes in it, four of them running right through. There is one wound in my abdomen with several stitches in it. One in the groin of my left leg and above my knee on the right leg. That counts 16 altogether and quite enough for one fellow.

Well mother it has taken me a long time to write this letter with my left hand and it will be some time before I shall use my right hand for that purpose.

I hope you are keeping well and do not worry because I am well and enjoying life with nothing to do but lie in bed and read newspapers. Tell Alma to write often.

Love to all,
Your loving son,
ERNEST

Claresholm Water Supply Cause of Litigation

An injunction was asked in the supreme court of Calgary, asking that the continuance of the water supply of the municipality of the town of Claresholm, the defendant in two actions, be stopped until such time as the pipes conveying that supply be placed in such repair that the water does not seep out and damage property over which it is conveyed.

The first action is that of James D. Carey, a farmer who claims that the water from the pipes has percolated over and under his quarter section to such an extent that his house and out buildings have been damaged and the alkali in the ground has been forced to the surface. This plaintiff asks damages in the sum of $2,000 and the injunction restraining further use of the water pipes until they are put in sufficient state of repair. No judge of the supreme court has yet dealt with the matter of the injunction.

W. Altie, a market gardener, is plaintiff in the other action and claims that he has suffered similar damage as has Carey. He asks damages in the sum of $1,800 and the same injunction asked by Carey. Messrs Campbell & Edmondson, of Macleod, are acting for both of the plaintiffs.—Calgary Herald.

Communication from the *Lieut.-Governor

Edmonton, July 18

The Claresholm Review,
Dear Sir—I beg to advise you that I am in receipt of a communication from the Central Committee for Patriotic organizations, of London, England, in which it is proposed that meetings be held throughout the Empire on the 4th of August in commemoration of the Second Anniversary of the war with Germany, and it is urged that the following resolution be adopted at all meetings, this resolution having been approved by the Prime Minister of Britain and Colonial Secretary:

"RESOLVED, That on this second anniversary of the declaration of a righteous war, this meeting of the citizens of . . . records its inflexible determination to continue to a victorious end the struggle in maintenance of those ideals of Liberty and Justice which are the common and sacred cause of the Allies."

My Government heartily endorses this project, and we trust that meetings may be held wherever possible throughout the province of Alberta and foregoing Resolution enthusiastic ally carried.

May I ask that you will be good enough to advise me whether or not such a meeting will be held in your community.

Yours faithfully,
R. G. BARTY
Lieutenant Governor

The Review-Advertiser has received word that the French horse buyers will be in Claresholm next Saturday.

Two men engaged in digging a well in the Grande Prairie district, about two weeks ago, struck gas at 50 feet, and both were suffocated. The names of the men were Ole Sundal and Elling Anderson.

Word has been passed along that the German Government, in a further effort to raise money by taxation, has selected the ladies' corset as legitimate prey for the object which they have in view. Shes-sh, ladies, don't any of you mention this to our Arthur L. Sifton, or Alberta will be the next to contribute in like manner.

Get your job printing done at the Review.

Bear Disturbs

Pleasure Seekers

Banff, Alta., July 22nd.—Messrs. Tongerson and Amundson with their families, motored to Banff from Claresholm last Thursday night and took possession of the McRory cottage at the Upper Hot Springs. They arrived about twelve o'clock and, weary from their long journey, lost no time in seeking their respective quarters.

Just as the sandman was pressing their eyelids down a noise at one of the windows caused them to sit up and take notice. Another and a louder sound and a pane of glass fell crashing to the floor, followed by a snout and head of a big bear protruding through the broken window.

While some of the party exercised their vocal organs, others followed the plan of the ostrich and buried their heads beneath the clothing. But Mr. Amundson was built of sterner stuff, like a true descendant of the Vikings, grabbed a couple of flat irons, the only convenient weapons, and planted both on the carcass of brute.

It was too warm a reception for Mr. Bear who, with grunts of displeasure, waddled away and the weary people once more essayed to find the trail to slumberland. News Telegram

The Rex Theatre was well filled on Saturday night when Victor Moore in "Snobs," was presented. The films were good, the story was good, and the audience came away well satisfied with the evening's entertainment.

Frank Messiner, who has been in charge of the Hardwick ranch, was severely injured in a runaway. He was not moving, when something frightened the team. Mr. Messiner became entangled in some way, and was dragged quite a distance. He received many bad bruises, besides two broken ribs. The committee in charge of the picnic held on July 19th at Mrs. Sharples Price ranch, take this method of thanking the Claresholm live lullab, Trout Creek lullab and the Claresholm band, and others who so ably assisted to make it a success. Thanking you all again, we remain the committee in charge: Mrs. Brannen, Mrs. Sharples Price, Mrs. Ross, Lyndon, Mrs. Leslie, Mrs. Bowne.

The philosophy entitled "The Philosophy of Happiness" which was at the Saskatoon and Toronto, was an excellent presentation. It showed in living pictures the evil effects that too often result when one is in her circumstances attain only a great wealth. It was a play with a moral, and impressed upon the mind the great fact, that wealth is not the one thing needful to bring happiness into one's life.

We received a letter this week from Mr. Chas. Rieks, of College Place, Wash. He says—"I enjoy reading the Review-Advertiser. It is like a letter from home."

We are pleased with such words of appreciation. A large number of papers go every week to former residents of this district who are now scattered all over the world. To all of these the local news is, doubtless of considerable interest.

In the afternoon Mr. J. M. Soby took him to Badger Flats where he also preached, and in the evening he preached in the Methodist church. It was generally expected that Mr. Gold would have something to say regarding the administration of the Liquor Act, and would make clear the attitude of the government regarding the disputed points in the Act. No information, however, was given out, and at all these services Mr. Gold delivered simple gospel sermons.

Mount Royal College

Dr. G. W. Kerley, Principal of Mount Royal College, Calgary, reports good prospects for that institution for the coming year. Application for rooms are already coming in from various parts of the province. The past five years have laid the foundation and created a reputation that is known throughout western Canada.

Dr. Kerley's aim has been, from the beginning, to make the college an ideal home for the young people while they are pursuing their studies to see that every care and supervision is exercised and the best ideals constantly held before the young people.

The college has been fortunate in the character and class of teachers it has had on its faculty.

At the present time the building is being renovated and repaired and the students rooms are being redecorated for the opening of the fall term in September.

War Notes

The British drive is still progressing. Latest reports tell of the capture of Paderborn. Germany brought troops from the Verdun front to hold this place, but were driven out by the British with terrible loss.

The French report successes south of the Somme, with the capture of guns and prisoners.

The Russians are continuing their drive in Armenia. Erzingan fell into their hands on Wednesday. 4000 prisoners were taken and large quantities of ammunition.

The Russian army is now only 10 miles from the Hungarian front and from Brno, which is the key to Lemberg. It looks as if the latter fortress will soon be in the possession of Russia for a second time.

There is at least one Patriotic movement in Canada. Frank Baillie the President of the Canadian Cartridge Company of Hamilton made $753,248 in ten months in manufacturing cartridge cases. He has now paid it back to the government to be used on behalf of our war expenditures.

Hill Breezes

Mr. W. Smith has been breaking on his mother's land. Quite a large piece will be ready for next year's crop.

One of our neighbors is preparing material for the erection of a building of some kind. We are not quite sure whether it is to be a hay loft, a dance hall, or a cannery factory.

Mr. Geo. Fletcher has been hindered by his building operations by the lack of good lumber at the mills.

Mr. W. Furnan has returned home after spending a month in Clareholm, under the doctor's care. He has had a tumor removed, and is now feeling fine.

Mr. P. O. Smith seldom visits the hills now. We miss him badly. His visits used to cheer us up.

Some think the best way to get the government to put the telephone in better shape is to shoot some of the inspectors off.

Everybody is getting ready for haying. There is an excellent crop this year.

Mr. Murdoch McD- is very busy just now. Poor girls! You are sadly neglected, but wait till the evenings are longer, and then he will make the wires hot.

Mr. C. R. K. has been staying at home very faithfully. Something is wrong evidently.

Two Per Cent Beer

Practically all the hotels in Calgary are now selling 2% beer, and all through the country the bars of the hotels are being painted, and preparations being made to sell this new beverage. It has been reported that the Calgary brewery has contracted to pay all the fines that may be imposed upon their customers. The government will probably let the matter go to the court, and then if necessary, after the act so that all alcoholic drinks will be barred from sale within the province. Some think that the 2% beer will die a natural death and that no one will develop an abnormal appetite for it. There is apparently little to be feared from it, and if 2% beer helps to keep up the hotels, which otherwise would have to close, it might be wise to try it out for a few months. The danger seems to be in the fact that with exposure the liquor will increase in strength. On account of this the Calgary brewers have thus far only sold it in bottles.

Heroic Fight With a Bear

The bear fight, which was reported in the News Telegram as having taken place at Banff, between O. J. Amundsen and a big black bear, was it seems perfectly true. Had the bear appeared an hour earlier it would have found no one in the house but women.

Mr. Amundsen and L. T. Torgensen had just arrived and got comfortably settled in bed, when the window of the kitchen was smashed in, and a brute commenced to pace himself inside.

Mr. Amundsen, who was sleeping downstairs, immediately sprang out of bed and seizing a stick, the only weapon at hand, went after the bear with all his might.

After a severe struggle, the bear, with a sore head, made a hasty retreat.

Considerable sympathy is felt for Mr. Torgensen that he was not in the fray. He was sleeping upstairs, and being in his night robes, hesitated about appearing in company.

As the bear would not wait for him to dress, he was unable to take part in the fight. Otherwise they might have secured the hide as a trophy.

The honors of victory consequently rest solely with Mr. Amundsen.

So far as we can learn, Mr. Amundsen has the distinction of being the only one in the world who has fought and beaten a bear single handed with a flat iron.

Brains often-times succumb where livers fail. How to get a barrel of vinegar out of R. B. Allen's cellar has defied solution for eight twelve months. All the muscular men of the town have tried defeat, and for some months the barrel has stood unremoved.

The vinegar, however, was badly needed and new plans were devised to secure the precious liquid. Everyone thought that Otto Holm was only bluffing when he said that he could take it out with the help of one man. The crowd gathered around to see the feat, never anticipating that it would be done. We won't give away the secret, but it was done. The barrel came out in a hurry. It was brainer rather than muscle that did it.

Mary Fuller in "Under Southern Skies"

Lella Crofton, a high-strung Southern girl of eighteen, is loved by two young men, Burleigh Mayor and Steve Daubney, both of good family and about the same age.

The story opens in 1850 on Major Crofton's vast Louisiana plantation, where Lella's eighteen-year-old daughter is being celebrated by a big house party.

Lella had been conscious for some time that there was some mystery involving her mother, as all answers to her questions to her father or Aunt Doshag had always been avoided, but on her eighteenth birthday she presses her father to tell her about her mother.

The Major puts her off, but in a vision the Major sees himself and his beautiful wife with their daughter in their old home in Savannah.

All his happiness and sunshine until a handsome young man wins the young wife's confidence and she elopes with him, leaving her broken-hearted husband and little girl behind.

At Lella's birthday party Steve proposes for her hand, but Lella has Burleigh in her mind and so refuses Steve, who goes away.

While the party is in progress Lella's mother, who had been deserted years before by her lover, but cannot suppress the yearning to see her daughter on her eighteenth birthday, makes her way to the Crofton plantation, where she eventually herself behind bushes and trees in the hope of seeing Lella.

How Lella finds her mother, and how she finally marries Mayor, the man of her choice, is shown in a manner most thrilling, and the author's interest never less throughout the entire production, so tense are some of the situations as to hold one in suspense.
